

Ten simple rules for organising an effective (student-led) writing retreat

Nicholas W. Daudt*, Claudia Hird, Eleanor Kelly, Elli Leinikki, Gretchen McCarthy, Ian S. Dixon-Anderson, Jackson Beagley, Jessica Moffitt, Joseph Curtis, Lindsay Wickman, Meghan Duffy, Preston Maluafiti, Saskia Foreman, William Carome, Leah M. Crowe

* nicholaswdaudt@gmail.com

---

Ground Rules

- Lab space is writing space.
- Sleeping space is sleeping space.
- No partying in the field station, quiet after 10:00 PM, unless everyone is still up.
- Put down words. This is a writing retreat, so write.
- Respect that English isn't everyone's first language, but that doesn't matter: Just write/Ecrivez/Apenas escreva/Kirjoita/Solo escribe/נאר שרייבן/Tuhituhi noa!
- Respect the clock. If you can't get in the right head space, take a walk.
- Respect each other. Kind, constructive criticism only!
- Be punctual for group discussions and meals.